Senate May Pass Health Care Plan

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bipartisan plan for giving health care to the aged through Social Security financing has been unveiled in the Senate and appears to have a good chance of passing.

And Democratic whip Hubert H. Humphrey predicted that there was a possibility it would clear the House this year, to.

"A good, big Senate vote would give it impetus in the House," said the Minnesota senator.

The administration's health care plan has been bottled up in the House Ways and Means Committee, a majority of whose members appear to be against any Social Security health plan.

The new compromise picked up support of five Republicans as soon as it was explained to the Senate Friday by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-Min. He described it as the product of weeks of negotiations to gather bipartisan backing.

It contains the same benefits as the Kennedy measure but would also cover persons not under Social Security and would bring in private health insurance policies. The only other time the Senate voted on a Social Security health insurance plan was in 1960 when it was defeated 51-44, with only one Republican supporting it.

The Senate is to begin debating the issue—one of the most important of the 1962 session—on Monday.

Anderson's proposal will be offered as an amendment to a House-passed public welfare bill. Anderson, who has been carrying the ball in the Senate for the President on the explosive health care issue, won his Republican backing largely because he agreed to write in an option feature covering private health insurance policies.

Thus, a person reaching 65 could elect to have his benefits handled by the Social Security Administration; but he also could elect to continue with a private insurance plan if it gave him at least the same benefits as the basic Social Security package.

If he took the option and needed hospitalization or other services, the Social Security Administration would reimburse his company for the cost of the payments, plus administrative costs.

Other key points of the compromise:

1. It would be financed by an increase in Social Security payroll taxes.
2. Its benefits are identical to those in the administration bill—hospitalization, nursing home care, home health services and outpatient hospital diagnostic services.
3. The estimated 2.5-million people not covered by Social Security would be given the benefits of the program along with the 15 million expected to be under Social Security or the Railroad Retirement Act by 1964 when the plan would take effect.

Both those under Social Security and those outside it would get the benefits as a matter of right, with no test for financial need.

KAJI Asks Permit to Sell Station

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Little Rock radio station KAJI, one of the oldest broadcasting outlets in Arkansas, has asked the Federal Communications Commission for permission to sell the station to Glen A. Harmon of Louisville, Ky.

Michael J. Heller of Little Rock, head of a corporation that owns the station, said he sought to give up the station because of health and family business commitments that would keep him away from Little Rock.

Harmon owns station WINN at Louisville. No sale price was announced. Heller said Harmon would move to Little Rock if the sale is approved.

KAJI was established in 1927 and was KGH until its call letters were changed in 1959.

Heller and Eugene M. Kramer of Washington bought the 1,000-watt non-network station for $115,000 on May 6, 1959, from Harold E. King of Jacksonville, Fla.

An Orchid From Seed to Full Bloom Requires Seven Years, Grower Must Have Patience

By MARY ANITA LASETER

An impatient person should never splice film, drive in heavy traffic, or raise orchids.

We see affirmative nods from those who have tried the first two but what about this orchid business? In this area it has not proved too successful due to the lack of continuous humidity. It gets hot and humid in Southwest Arkansas, but fortunately for people and unfortunately for orchids, it doesn't last.

And it takes an average of seven years to raise orchids from seed to blossom. See what we mean by patience? This is nothing new for many gardeners, though, for there are other plants which require equally long periods of waiting. The difference is the possibility of glorious blossoms which defy description.

The Encyclopedia Britannica describes orchids as "one of the most interesting groups of flowering plants usually with beautiful and often with exceedingly handsome and highly fragrant flowers." We didn't know orchids were "highly fragrant," but the Britannica is usually right.

In the greenhouse the seeds look like a handful of dust and are often planted in bottles. In their natural habitat, the humid tropics, orchid seeds blow far and wide, perhaps taking root in the crevice of a tree in which rotted leaves are packed. These are epiphytic orchids, while those found in temperate zones are terrestrial.

Sir Winston to Undergo Operation

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill will be operated on tonight for his fractured left thigh, Middlesex Hospital announced.

The announcement was made following Churchill's return by special jet ambulance plane from Monte Carlo, where he suffered the injury in a fall in his hotel room Thursday.

Churchill came back to London with his leg in a cast but in good humor. He waved to crowds and gave the V-for-victory sign as he was transported from London airport to the hospital.

The announcement concerning the operation came after doctors studied the case. It said:

"It will be necessary to deal with Sir Winston's fracture with an open operation. Despite the long journey his condition is as satisfactory as possible. It has been decided to operate this evening."

Badly Beaten Negro Dies

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Negro man who was found badly beaten in a ditch Wednesday, died in a hospital Thursday and police held another Negro on an open charge.

Robert Lee Jenkins, 32, died of a ruptured liver. Clarence Everett, 32, was arrested. A woman found Jenkins lying in a ditch and called Jenkins' brother to take the man to the hospital.

Morris Faces More Questions In Estes Case

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—William E. Morris, ousted Agriculture Department official, faced more questioning behind closed doors today about his friendship and dealings with Billie Sol Estes.

Morris' recall by a House Government Operations subcommittee shifted the spotlight from recessed Senate public hearings on the Estes case marked Friday by peppy exchanges between Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and his questioners.

Freeman denied Republican senators' charges that Estes had received favored treatment from the department and that Freeman's administration had been slow to crack down on Estes' get-rich-quick schemes under farm aid programs.

The House subcommittee headed by Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., kept its questioning of Morris a mystery.

The subcommittee refused to give any hint about the nature of Morris' testimony at a closed session Friday.

James Naughton, subcommittee counsel, also declined to say whether transcripts of Morris' testimony would be made public, or whether Morris would testify at a public hearing.

Freeman fired Morris last April 16 for refusing to answer questions about his relationships with Estes.

Morris had been an assistant to former Asst. Secretary of Agriculture James T. Ralph, also fired because of his connections with the gift-giving Texas promoter.

In his appearance before the subcommittee Ralph had disclosed that he and Morris each received two $100 money orders from Estes. He said they turned the money over to the Democratic party.

There were also allegations that Morris had a list of persons who received similar money orders from Estes, including several Congressmen and a member of the administration.

In the Senate hearing Friday, a controversy swirled about a letter Charles S. Murphy, Freeman's undersecretary, wrote to the subcommittee April 20. In it Murphy declared he knew of no "substantial evidence that Estes was guilty of a criminal offense" in connection with transfers of cotton acreage allotments.

Murphy's letter was written as an explanation of why he joined other agency officials in declaring the cotton acreage deals illegal, then on the same day cleared Estes for appointment to the National Cotton Advisory Committee in the face of a staff investigator's report that Estes might face prosecution.

Murphy held that the alleged illegality of the cotton deals was a "civil legal problem, rather than a criminal one." Freeman said he was not consulted about it at the time, is convinced that Murphy made a mistake in clearing Estes, but that he believes the undersecretary acted in good faith.

Israeli May Quickly Expel Convicted Spy

By ERIC GOTTFREU

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Quick expulsion that could lodge him back in U.S. hands seemed in prospect today for Dr. Robert A. Soblen, bail-jumping fugitive from life imprisonment in the United States as a Soviet spy.

It was learned authoritatively that Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's government is not willing to grant Soblen a visa to stay in Israel and that, his health permitting, he is expected to be ousted soon.

The action may come before he is brought to trial on the allegation of entering Israel with false papers—a charge which Soblen denies.

Cabinet machinery went into highest gear following the arrival this morning of a U. S. State Department request that Soblen be returned to the United States to start serving the sentence he was supposed to start Thursday.

Ben-Gurion is understood to have been consulted personally. Though it is an Interior Ministry responsibility, the case is expected to involve the Foreign and Justice ministries as well. Informed circles said the Cabinet would consider the case at its regular meeting Sunday.

Estes Case Probe Not Completed

By G. MILTON KELLY

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Investigation of the Billie Sol Estes case is not completed, U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Thursday night.

He flew here from Oklahoma City to confer with U.S. attorneys for two Texas districts, Barefoot Sanders of Dallas and Wayne Justice of Tyler.

Estes, 37, West Texas promoter, is under state and federal indictment on fraud charges and is under congressional investigation. His multimillion-dollar farming and business empire is in receivership.

Kennedy declined comment on whether the Justice Department would join in a state investigation reported to have uncovered evidence of widespread illegal slant well drilling in East Texas oil fields.

He did say the Estes case was not all that would be discussed with Sanders and Justice but he would not elaborate.

Trade Bill Vote Tonic to Kennedy

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The thumping House vote for his trade expansion bill came like a tonic for President Kennedy, who had begun to talk like a frustrated man.

It's no sign, however, that other big, controversial measures on the Kennedy program will get through. The reciprocal trade policy, begun in 1934, has had considerable support in both parties for years. President Eisenhower, for instance, was for lowering of trade barriers.

On other issues—his defeated farm bill for example—Kennedy has been learning the hard way the truth of a political maxim:

A presidential candidate's ability to promise is usually far greater than his ability to perform. Especially if he promises big innovations.

In the 1960 campaign, Kennedy pledged bold and novel programs which, he argued, were needed to "get this country going again."

This week he acknowledged, at a news conference, that he lacks a dependable working majority in Congress to get the job done. This despite the fact that the Democrats have big majorities in both chambers—64 to 35 in the Senate and 123 to 74 in the House.

Kennedy said it was hard to get any big, controversial bill through because so many Democrats vote with the Republicans. But this has been going on for years.

In fact, the last president who could make sweeping promises of bold innovations, with any real hope of being able to perform, was Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1932 campaign.

When he got elected, Congress really ate out of his hand for a while, passing bill after bill containing vast social and economic innovations. But that was because the country had been going through an economic cataclysm—the Great Depression. The mood of Congress, and the country, was anything but conservative.

But the New Deal ran out of steam after a while. A turning point might be said to have come in 1937. That year Roosevelt, angered because the Supreme Court had knocked down NRA and some of his other measures, proposed a bill which would have enabled him to enlarge and thereby pack the court. The bill was beaten.

Since the mood of Congress has largely been conservative. There have been no great innovations in domestic policy, barring of course the emergency measures of World War II.

If the Democratic party were a single unit, with a common viewpoint, Kennedy could count on a dependable majority. But the party has seldom been this. It's like a big tent, sheltering liberals and conservatives. To a degree, this also can be said of the Republican party.

In Congress the conservatives—Republican and Democratic—are the dominating force, and there's no sign on the horizon that this situation is likely to change any time soon.

9 Charged in Oaklawn Park Bets

By G. MILTON KELLY

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Three Milwaukee men have been charged with violating federal anti-gambling laws by placing bets on horse races at Oaklawn Park at Hot Springs, Ark., after the races had been run.

The men were identified by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as William G. Donahue, 25, Robert A. Begland, 28, and Charles E. Cantell, 22. They appeared before U. S. Commissioner John C. McBride and posted $1,000 bail each.

Here is how the FBI said their system worked:

One man was stationed at the Oaklawn race track with a two-way radio. As soon as a race ended he radioed the results to a second man in a telephone booth outside the track. The second man transmitted the results by telephone to the third man in Milwaukee. The third man called a Milwaukee bookie and placed bets on the race, he Milwaukee bookie was misinformed on the starting times of the races and accepted the bets.

U. S. Atty. James Brennan said the case was one of the first under new federal laws prohibiting interstate transmission of gambling information and paraphernalia.

U.S. Chamber Calls for Tax Cuts Now

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce called today for immediate income and corporation-tax cuts totaling $5.5 to $7.5 billion as a business stimulant.

The chamber acknowledged that the reduction would further unbalance the federal budget. It was the first such recommendation in the business organization's 50-year history.

The organization acted at a time when organized labor also has called for immediate tax cuts to stimulate the economy.

President Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday that his administration was watching the economic situation closely and would recommend an immediate tax cut if it found one necessary.

The administration earlier had announced plans for an across-the-board tax cut effective next year.

In a statement today, chamber President H. Ladd Plumley said a tax cut delay "not only courts the disaster of a recession in the U.S. but its spread to Canada, already under pressure, and hence to Europe." He added:

"The free world cannot look with complacency upon such a catastrophe."

Big Welcome for Kennedy In Mexico

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

MEXICO CITY (AP)—President Kennedy, heartened by the mightiest public tribute ever paid him in a foreign capital, resumes probing talks today with Mexico's leaders on how to fortify the Americas against ominous political and economic threats.

The President, his reception here regarded generally as an enormous personal triumph, apparently is laying his cards on the table in frank conversations with Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

There is every indication that the subject of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban regime and its alliance with communism came up in their first round of talks Friday.

The enthusiastic public outpouring to greet the President—officials estimated a million and a half Mexicans massed to cheer him—could strengthen Kennedy's hand in his search for common ground with the Mexican government on the mass of political, economic and social problems plaguing turbulent and restless Latin America.

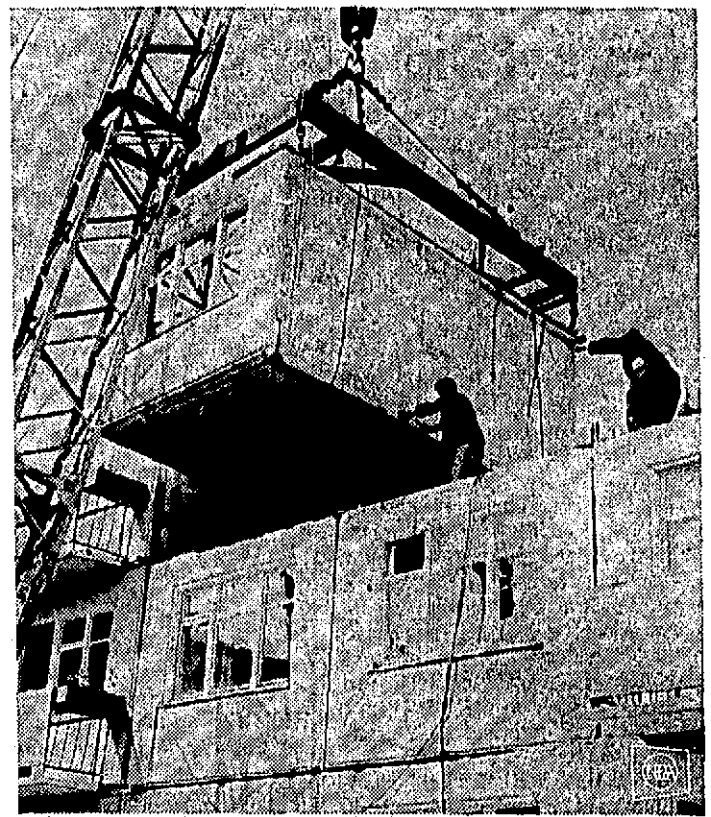

The impact of the visit was not confined to this capital of 5½ million. Reports from around the nation of 36 million indicated that radio and television coverage of the spectacular first day of the visit was followed avidly in Mexican cities, towns and hamlets.

The dramatic display by the citizens of Mexico City could serve the U.S. president as a powerful argument in favor of some sort of common front against the Communist-Castroist attack being mounted all over the hemisphere.

After a grueling first-day schedule which included three public speeches, a state luncheon, a City Hall ceremony, an appearance at the Mexican Folklore Ballet and private talks with the Mexican president sandwiched in, Kennedy faced another taxing schedule today including a battle with the Mexican president.

The two planned to devote an hour and a half to this meeting, which was likely to take up new questions relating to the Alliance for Progress and Mexico's role in it, and a variety of economic and other questions involving the United States and Mexico.

A communiqué on the results of their talks was promised.

New York to Abide by Court Rule

By JOE HALL

SALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The U. S. Supreme Court decision banning official prayers in public schools is "now the law of the land and it will be so recognized by all school authorities in the state," the Board of Regents declared today.

The board adopted unanimously a policy statement that appeared to be a directive to local school officials to halt the practice of having children recite prayers to open the school day.

Some local officials had said they would defy the Supreme Court ban and continue the prayers.

The regents called on schools to "stress the development of moral values through all the activities and lessons of the school day and, particularly, by the good example of the staff members."

The action of the board, governing body of all education in the state, followed by five days the decision in which the nation's highest court said that the practice of reciting a prayer to open the class day in public schools in New York State violated the U. S. Constitution.

The court, in a 6-1 decision cited the First Amendment, which requires separation of church and state.

The prayer in question was drafted by the regents 11 years ago as a nonsectarian one. The board suggested that public school teachers lead their classes at the beginning of each day in the prayer:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee and we beg Thy blessing upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

A group of parents in New Hyde Park, L.I., challenged the use of the prayer. They rejected the defense that children were not compelled to recite it.

Teacher Wins Title of Miss Pine Bluff

By G. MILTON KELLY

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Libby Burnside, a 22-year-old dramatics teacher at Pine Bluff High School, was named Miss Pine Bluff Thursday night.

Miss Burnside, a blue-eyed brunette, defeated nine other entries in the contest which has produced Miss Arkansas three of the past four years.

The five foot, 5 1/2 inch beauty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Burnside of El Dorado. She just completed her first year of teaching after graduation from Henderson State Teachers College.

It was the fifth annual Miss Pine Bluff contest and three of the first four winners went on to greater things.

Sally Miller won the Miss Arkansas Pageant in 1958 and was among the 10 finalists in the Miss America Pageant. Claudette Smith became Miss Arkansas in 1960.

Then last year Francis Jane Anderson became Miss Arkansas and was first runnerup in the Miss America show.

First runnerup to Miss Burnside Thursday night was Paula Tounasin. Katherine White finished third.

Congress to Try to Clean Up Items

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress tries to clean up a number of fiscal year-end items today after voting to raise the national debt ceiling and providing funds to run the government next month.

Leaders said they hoped all necessary business for fiscal 1962, which ends Saturday at midnight, could be finished by late today. But a Saturday session may be needed, they said.

The jam occurs each June but this year's has involved more legislation than usual.

Two of the major items were cleared for President Kennedy Thursday.

The Senate sent to him a bill raising the debt limit to a record high of $308 billion for most of 1963 after beating back Republican efforts to trim it to $306 billion.

Both branches rushed through an emergency resolution permitting all government agencies to continue spending generally at current rates through July. This was necessary because not a single regular money bill for the new year has been passed by both branches and cleared through conference.

This almost unprecedented situation has resulted from a deadlock on protocol between the two appropriations committees—such things as whether a senator or House member shall preside at conferences.

Also sent to the President was a bill extending for another year the suspension of duties on scrap metal imports.

The President, meanwhile, signed into law a bill passed Wednesday by Congress to extend a series of Korean War taxes but to eliminate taxes on train and bus tickets and slice those on air fares to 5 per cent. The taxes which continue and bring in about $4.2 billion a year would have expired at the end of the fiscal year had legislation not been completed.

The conferees on the bill to extend the Export Control Act will have another go at an agreement during the day following a 44-33 Senate rejection of their handiwork Thursday night.

Thursday the conferees dropped all Senate and House amendments on the legislation and decided on a simple one-year extension. But some senators complained loudly at elimination of provisions they had sponsored aimed at tightening the law.

The act provides authority to regulate shipments to unfriendly nations.

Conferees on the bitterly controversial Sugar Act held their first session Thursday night and reached no agreements of any kind.

The Senate has before it another House-passed bill with some June 30 deadlines, a Public Welfare Act revision measure, but Senate leaders have put this over to Monday.

It is the vehicle chosen by Senate Democratic leaders for an attempt at winning adoption of a health care plan for the aged financed under Social Security. The health plan would be hooked onto the welfare measure as an amendment.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., administration leader in this effort, conferred at length with Republicans Thursday on a compromise amendment to set up such a plan.

When Mrs. Foster Willett of Jonesboro walked out to her stables last week to inspect Mac-K's Star, she got the surprise of her life.

There was a pretty little black filly colt.

The surprise element was that the Willetts had purchased the horse only two weeks before from a Covington, Tenn., stable. They had been showing the horse frequently and last week she took a second place ribbon at Corning.

There was no indication the mare was about to foal.

Mrs. Willett called the stable and told them of the development. It turned out the mare had been bred to a top-blooded stud, but somehow nobody knew she was expecting.

Mrs. Willett was chuckling at her "two for one" deal.

The stable owner, she said, "was so shocked he was almost sick."

Economy as Result of Market Dip

EDITOR'S NOTE—The stock market has had a shakeout—is business next in line? In this, last of two articles on the economy of midyear, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, discusses the outlook for the rest of 1962.

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—In Wall Street they are talking openly about a recession as if it were a sure thing just around the corner. In Washington administration spokesmen are pooh-poohing any such visitation this year at least. But they are asking for new measures to forestall or cushion a business slump, just in case.

Yet most businessmen still are saying that even if the general economic picture is clouded the outlook for their own firms hasn't changed much nor has their planning.

And current statistics still show more plus than minus signs, although many regarded as forerunners of business change are pointing down.

The reasons recession talk is common as the second half of 1962 starts:

1. The sharp stock market break starts.

2. Business in general improved in the first half of the year but at a disappointing rate and the slow-down could be the tipping off of a brief recovery from the last slump.

3. The government-steel clash over prices makes many fear that business is in for a rough time.

4. The long postwar inflation has slowed to a crawl—deflation next?

Business planning isn't being helped any by the fact this is an election year. Industry in general, and many individual firms, will be affected by what Congress will do about taxes, spending, international trade, and a multitude of existing or suggested controls. So will consumers. And so will many workers, employed or seeking jobs.

Many economists think that the momentum of the business recovery, even if not impressive, guarantees generally good times for the rest of this year.

The plus factors for the rest of this year: Construction at a new high and well ahead of last year; auto sales promising the industry's second best year; consumer spending at a peak—with any sizeable effect from the stock market break yet to show; industrial production rising—although the usual summer slowdown is just ahead; record personal savings on which consumers can draw.

The indicators pointing down: A drop in new orders for capital goods.

Fabric Caused Crash at Wynne

WYNNE, Ark. (AP)—The single-engine plane which crashed near Wynne Tuesday went down because of faulty fabric, State Trooper Sid Smith said Thursday.

Pieces of the wreckage indicated that fabric on top of the plane cockpit began peeling off, Smith said, causing the plane to lose altitude and go into a spin.

A Joplin, Mo., family of four was killed in the crash.

Those are the signs cited by those who see a recession near at hand.

Those who think any serious slump is many months away see the rest of the year as a good one for business—because of the momentum of the recovery, because of the stimulants of government spending and the psychology of a promised tax cut.

When Mrs. Foster Willett of Jonesboro walked out to her stables last week to inspect Mac-K's Star, she got the surprise of her life.

There was a pretty little black filly colt.

The surprise element was that the Willetts had purchased the horse only two weeks before from a Covington, Tenn., stable. They had been showing the horse frequently and last week she took a second place ribbon at Corning.

There was no indication the mare was about to foal.

Mrs. Willett called the stable and told them of the development. It turned out the mare had been bred to a top-blooded stud, but somehow nobody knew she was expecting.

Mrs. Willett was chuckling at her "two for one" deal.

The stable owner, she said, "was so shocked he was almost sick."

The filly's name? Mac-K's Dark Secret.

Luck, like history, repeats itself—only for Boker W. Howell of Little Rock, in reverse cycles, first bad, then good.

While fishing at Adams Lake on Lake Conway last week, Monroe G. Pinson Sr. of Alexander hooked a billfish resting on a log about a foot below the water's surface.

He spread the contents in the sun to dry and found Howell's name on an automobile registration slip. Pinson called Howell and was informed the billfish was lost in 1959 when a boat overturned.

Howell said the billfish contained about $400 when he lost it. Part of the money may be redeemable through serial numbers.

An enterprising tomboy in Paragould is determined to get a trumpet.

Major and Mrs. Richard Kelly have on their hands a freckle-faced, 10-year-old tomboy turtle dealer with 50 items on sale for 25 cents apiece.

"I'm sure Mom and Dad would buy it for me, but somehow if I earn the money for the trumpet myself, it will mean more to me," she says.

The fifth grader's ambition is to join the junior band this fall.

U.S. Soldier Tells of Forced March

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. soldier released by Communist guerrillas told today of 35-hour forced marches during which his arms were bound and his captors led him with a rope around his neck.

Spec. 4 George F. Fryett Jr., 2, of Long Beach, Calif., told a news conference he was exhibited in many villages during six months in Viet Cong captivity. He said he had to read Communist propaganda aloud at gun point four or five times a day.

Fryett, 26 pounds thinner than when he was captured Christmas Eve, consulted with a U.S. intelligence agent before replying to questions from newsmen. He denied, as he has done before, that he cooperated in any way with the Viet Cong while he was held in the jungle.

Before allowing him to appear at the news conference, U.S. authorities apparently decided he revealed no secrets to his Communist captors and signed no statements critical of the United States. He said he knew nothing about a letter Communist broadcasters said he had written to his family criticizing U.S. support for the South Vietnamese government.

Fryett said the pair of sandals he had been wearing when captured fell apart because of constant exposure to water and marching. His feet were badly blistered.

The soldier said he tried to escape once by slipping into a river. He managed to loosen his hands while partially under water, he said, and pulled the rope around his neck loose. He then tried to swim away under water, but he was caught and bound tightly again.

During his entire stay with the Viet Cong, Fryett said, he was kept at gun point by guards totaling from seven to 50 men.

Fryett was captured while riding a bicycle about 15 miles from Saigon. He was released last Sunday.

Goods that industry buys; corporate profits better than a year ago but lower than in the final months of 1961; basic steel in a production slump; order backlogs in many industries declining; and the six-month drop in stock prices with sharp breaks in recent weeks.

Those are the signs cited by those who see a recession near at hand.

Those who think any serious slump is many months away see the rest of the year as a good one for business—because of the momentum of the recovery, because of the stimulants of government spending and the psychology of a promised tax cut.

THE MISSION

By FLORANCE LINDEMANN

When the Division Chief gave me the assignment, I nearly flipped. I felt weak all over and for a couple of seconds I thought I was going to black out.

The Chief told me to pull myself together, and after my eyes began focusing again, I saw he was smiling patiently.

Then I heard my pitifully squeaky voice saying:

"Me? You must be kidding, Chief!"

"I'd run out of words. The whole business of appointing me to run this operation was so incredible that I just couldn't begin to list all the objections that floated around in my mind."

The chief was an understanding cuss and he knew my thoughts. And he smiled at my discomfort.

"Now stop cutting yourself down. Sure, you're new, but we're confident you're bright enough to handle this thing. This is no ordinary bunch of tourists you'll be guiding."

"You're telling me!"

"I might say that one of the reasons we did pick you is that you aren't the cocky type. Heavy knows we've got plenty of glory-seekers around who'd like the assignment for the prestige."

But we don't want that kind. We need someone steady and reliable, like you."

Somewhat I managed a respectful reply. "Well, if you say so, sir."

"Well, it's all settled then. I know you'll do a job our division will be proud of. Come back tomorrow for the special briefing."

As a matter of fact, the main requirement for this job is to be there and stick with it. Sounds simple, doesn't it, but those emissaries are depending on that completely, Nova."

"Certainly, sir!" I said. And then I began my mission.

Looking back on it now, I don't know why I was so scared when I first heard of the assignment. It turned out to be a once-in-a-lifetime experience for me. Of course, I was grumbling at times, but somehow I seemed to develop powers I never knew I had until I got this job. I guess the Chief's confidence in me is what did it.

Everything went smoothly and the mission did attain world-shaking importance. When the story broke, believe me, I was proud and happy to have been the guiding star that led those Three Wise Men to the stable at Bethlehem.

She Doesn't Wear Heart on Her Sleeve

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: At one time I loved my husband more than anything in this world, but now I'm not so sure. We've been married 20 years, have three lovely children and a fine home. Our friends think me a very happy woman—that's because I don't wear my heart on my sleeve. If the truth were known, I'm a miserable, insecure human being who feels like digging a hole and drawing it in after me. Nothing I do is ever right in my husband's eyes. If I buy a blue dress, he'll say, "Why didn't you get black and look your age?" Next time, I buy a black one and he says, "God, if you could only see what that undertaker's uniform does to you!"

It's the same with the way I fix the house, dress the children, plan the meals. Never a single word of praise; forever tearing down, never building up. Not once since we married has he paid me a single compliment.

That wouldn't be so bad if he didn't belittle me to our friends. I can always count on at least one insult before the evening's over. I try to turn off the jibes as jokes but they hurt. When I protest he says, "Anybody who compliments you is weak in the head."

I love our home and delight in keeping it attractive. Our children are the most tastefully dressed on the block. I am slender, vivacious and considered really pretty by all but my husband. Occasionally, I pass along a complimentary paid me. All I get from him is a look that's a stab. Let me make one single mistake and he hollers his head off about how only an idiot like me could be so dumb. As a result, I'm the original timid soul, self-conscious to the point of feeling downright faint when this ogre I call husband is around. Is life worth the effort?—What's Wrong?

Dear What: The longer you let that bully browbeat you, the worse matters will be. Wipe that timid soul business out of your consciousness. See yourself for what you actually are: A mature woman who has made a success of herself, her children and her home.

Gain a self-confidence by taking a course in public speaking.

How wrong we were, I thought, struggling to control my trembling as the Chief repeated his statement that I was to be the guide for this tour.

"Come now, fella, it's not as bad as all that. Sure, it's a tremendous responsibility, I'll grant, but you've got the qualifications so don't get shook. Your superiors have given this plenty of thought, believe me."

"But, sir," my voice still didn't sound normal, "I haven't had as much experience as some of the others and . . ."

I'd run out of words. The whole business of appointing me to run this operation was so incredible that I just couldn't begin to list all the objections that floated around in my mind."

The chief was an understanding cuss and he knew my thoughts. And he smiled at my discomfort.

TV Season Discovered No New Stars

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Television now has come to the end of another season remarkable for its lack of new, interesting women stars.

There have been, of course, many women performers, even stars on the home screens. But most of them played nice, normal upper middle class normal housewives with commuter husbands and carefully assorted children.

Shirley Booth, the season's biggest feminine name, plays a maid. As series' guest stars, the ladies largely have appeared as alcoholics, narcotics addicts, or victims of blackmail and murder threats.

Next year, things don't promise to be any better. Lucille Ball will be back as a man-hunting widow, and Loretta Young (who cut quite an elegant figure when she had her anthology dramatic series) will return as a widow—with seven children.

Betty Furness, an actress who has done a lot of serious thinking about woman's place in television, is inclined to believe that the sad state of feminine employment in the medium is due to its preoccupation with average family life.

"I think television needs a great big infusion of glamor," said Betty briskly. "All the big woman stars in the movies' golden days were glamorous and remote. I still turn around and stare, like a teen-age fan, if I see Greta Garbo walking down the street."

"Television has never invested its women with glamor. Until it does, there just won't be any exciting, bigger-than-life women stars."

This column now goes into a state of suspension for the next four weeks as this columnist takes a vacation.

We'll resume from Hollywood, where for a month or so, we'll be looking over and reporting on the shows and performers who will be seen next season.

McCord Sells 8 Arkansas Theaters

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Sale of eight Arkansas movie theaters—four in Hot Springs and four in Pine Bluff —to a Kansas City chain was announced Thursday by United Theaters of Arkansas.

M. S. McCord of North Little Rock, United president, said Commonwealth, which has theaters in eight states, will take over the Arkansas houses July 1.

Clarence Duvall, manager of United's Hot Springs operations, and Bruce Young, the Pine Bluff manager, will go to work for United in their present capacities, McCord said.

The Hot Springs theaters involved are the Malco, Strand, Central and Romy. The Strand and Romy are not now operating.

At Pine Bluff, the Saenger, Strand, Malco and Zebra Drive-In will change hands. The Strand is not operating.

McCord said he is selling the theaters to reduce his work load.

Club Owner Faces Murder Charge

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Bill Seaborn, 30, a tavern owner, has been charged with first degree murder, prosecutor Lyman Mikel said Thursday.

Mikel said Seaborn was arrested early Thursday at a Fort Smith hospital where he had taken George W. Schuh, 19, a private at Ft. Chaffee.

Police said Schuh, of Oaklawn, Ill., was shot in the back of the head with a .38 caliber pistol. He was a member of Company B of the 400th Regiment at the Army fort.

Mikel said Schuh and some other soldiers were at Seaborn's tavern and Seaborn asked them to leave just before the shooting.

The Post and Auxiliary planned a picnic for the fourth of July. The Group will prepare lunch and will carry enough food for expected friends and guest. The entire family is invited to come and help make this a grand affair. The place for the outing will be the Texarkana Dam. If you have not been there you should make it a point to picnic at this lovely recreation spot and do so with the legions on the 4th of July. Cars will be leaving from the Hicks' Funeral Home at 10 a.m. Mrs. Alice Holbert is reporter.

There will be a weiner roast at the home of Mrs. Bobby Prater Saturday June 30, 7:30 p.m.

Fuddy-Duddy Rarely Knows He Is One

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Are three banks worth 18 restaurants?

What good is progress if it ruins what you like?

These are questions I ponder every time I look out the window where I work.

Many people never know when they become a fuddy-duddy and an old fogey. A fuddy-duddy and an old fogey is a person who prefers things as they were rather than as they will be. He fights change.

Well, every time I hear the river's hammer echo in the new 40-plus-story building going up across the street, I consciously become more of a fuddy-duddy and an old fogey.

There seems to be a noisy conspiracy afoot to turn mid-Manhattan, one of the world's favorite playgrounds, into another paper clip forest—an uptown Wall Street.

Down come the fine old apartments, the beautifully ugly brownstones. Up go the new antiseptic aluminum and glass business foundries full of offices with neatly lettered doors.

Midtown used to be full of people on a lark. Now it is thronged with vice presidents full of grim purpose. It is getting harder and

Anchorman's Job Important in Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

New York (AP)—In a game or variety show, television calls the head man the "host." In a news program, he's the "anchorman," and although often it does not appear that he is doing very much, anchoring is a complicated, sensitive job.

"There's a lot more to it than meets the eye," explained Frank McGee, who has been NBC's central reporter for everything from space flights to international crises.

"The anchorman is necessary from a technical point, to allow the program to move in an orderly way from a central point. But he does many other things, too."

"He often decides the editorial content of the show; he is there to provide a lot of general information about the subject which sets up things for the next man to appear—a reporter on the scene perhaps—who will get down to specifics and the small, interesting detail."

"He also is there to sum up and perhaps offer a broad outline for the solution of a problem."

McGee, a graying man in his early 40s, is one of the few who moved directly into broadcasting from school. Most of his colleagues did their apprenticeship in newspaper work.

Even when studying at the University of California, McGee specialized in speech and worked part time in a broadcasting station.

His big break came in 1955 when he was news chief for a Montgomery, Ala., radio-television station and the city became a center of a mounting storm over civil rights and integration. McGee did so well, he won national recognition—and two years later moved over to NBC.

NBC will re-run its "Project 80" program showing circus life next Sunday. The program was first run on Jan. 21.

Frank Talk Planned by President

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

MEXICO CITY (AP)—When President Kennedy comes to Mexico Friday it's a good guess he will have some frank talk with Mexico's chief executive about the hemisphere's outlook toward Castro Cuba.

Little of the exchange on communism and Castroism is likely to appear in communiques concerning the U. S. leader's conversations with Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

The subject of Castroism is ticklish for Mexican politicians. Mexican political leaders are wedded, apparently, to the idea that any public talk picturing Fidel Castro as a danger to Latin America amounts to intervention by the United States in the affairs of its hemisphere neighbors.

Yet Mexico occupies a key position in Latin America. Its support would be extremely valuable in countering the Communist-Castro alliance.

The United States would like to see Mexico in the role of a staunch ally against the hemisphere-wide Red assault. But there is little prospect President Kennedy can convince President Lopez Mateos to take any public position even hinting at a common front with Washington against Castroism.

At the same time there is a strong possibility that the U.S. President's visit can be fruitful. For one thing, it may strengthen the position of those elements harder for a human being to find elbow room among the junior executives.

"For nearly a quarter of a century I have hung my hat and exercised my typewriter in one of the pioneer outposts of Rockefeller Center."

When I first moved in, I could look out the window and see Old Lady Vanderbilt's society mansion anchoring one end of the street across the way. At the other end of the street was a two-bit bar with a second-hand bookstore up stairs.

Over the years since then you could get your hair dyed in that single block, have a violin repaired, join a bridge club, rent a hotel room or wine and dine in 18 restaurants and taverns.

In the good old summertime there were two outdoor cafes where you could sit and sip bourbon or iced tea and watch the world and the girls go by. The chattering Rockettes from the Radio City Music Hall used to come across the street with their painted faces and rest their lovely long limbs there between shows.

Well, what happened to it all? They tore down the old hotel. Old Lady Vanderbilt died, and they tore down the landmark she lived in where the champagne bubbled.

One by one they tore down the old brownstones, the beer-perfumed taverns, the restaurants of many languages.

Now the street across from the window I look from is inhabited by giant office buildings, full of eager beavers eager to go home to the suburbs, and three stone banks.

Banks are wonderful for depositing money, but hardly a place to deposit a life—and certainly they do serve a lousy beef stew.

But only a fuddy-duddy complains against progress. I'm that fuddy-duddy.

Regular Doe Seasons May Be Necessary

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of informal articles pertaining to current deer management problems in Arkansas.)

By Gus Albright
News Editor
Arkansas Game and Fish Commission

The time was when hunters "killed" a buck, "slaughtered" a doe and "murdered" a fawn. But these two latter terms applied only to deer. They were never used when referring to squirrels, rabbits, quail, ducks, pigs or any other critters where females and young are hunted and/or eaten. They just applied to deer.

Some hunters still hold to this viewpoint, but most do not. For instance, last year when the Game and Fish Commission opened special areas to the taking of "any" deer, the response was terrific.

Hunters came from long distances. Some were of the novice type but many others represented long-standing deer camps. They were satisfied the game managers knew what they were doing and all welcomed the better chance to get some good venison.

According to surveys, today these same areas have large herds and should support similar seasons in 1962.

It should be recognized, of course, that each and every deer hunter is entitled to his or her opinion. Also, that it shall always be the individual's privilege to pass up the doe, fawn and spike in favor of the antlered buck.

However, to deer hunters of all sentiment, it should be a consolation to know that no other American game species has been studied as intensely as the whitetailed deer. No other animal's problems are as familiar to modern game technicians.

And if the experts have learned anything about deer in thirty years of research, it is that:

1. Excessive deer result in deterioration of both deer and range.

2. If there is a way of controlling deer numbers by other than hunting, it has not been found.

3. It is impossible to curtail deer by buck-hunting alone.

Almost any hunter would rather shoot a big trophy buck than a doe. But his chances of this may be lessened if the doe isn't shot first.

For one thing, starvation losses on crowded range take mostly fawns and older deer and the great majority of starved fawns are often males—a point that may be associated with the higher metabolic rates of young bucks.

In the second place, trophy bucks can't develop on badly overbrowsed deer range. Research has proven that on good range, 1 1/2 year old bucks may sport 8-point antlers; whereas, on extremely poor range, bucks of the same age failed to grow antlers above the hair line.

Proponents of the Buck Law argue that it saves does that are needed to bear fawns. But the country's better deer states have learned that a strict (no exception) buck law is, actually, wasteful, for antlerless deer shot by accident or on purpose are left in the woods.

Antlerless deer hunting, then, is the most effective way to prevent herd waste. Healthier animals exist on the range, and considerable natural loss goes into the hunter's locker.

who consider Castro a menace and who even now are beginning to speak out clearly.

There is Castro and Communist influence in the country in some spheres, notably among university students and faculties and among some of the people. The agitation has been helped by the pro-Castro attitude of former President Lázaro Cardenas, who is a spokesman for the extreme left.

INDEPENDENCE

...that good old American brand. A "way-of-life" that was signed into being, July 4th, nearly two hundred years ago. Ah, for that memorable day, when in the course of human events... Liberty Was Born. Then let us, on this Independence Day, rededicate ourselves to this "hope-of-the-world-way" ... this way of life that guarantees for all men, Freedom, Equality and Justice. Give us an unyielding faith and supply us with genius that cannot err. Endow us with vital religious convictions to pilot our inherited ship of state. Let us always remember that the source of our freedom is The Book. Then Americans, don't forget to remember that, Music Was Born When Liberty Spoke. It is our Independence Day!!!
